The Student's Version of Twas The Night Before Christmas

was the day before vacation, when all through the school, all the teachers were stirring, but the students were cool.

Everyone was sitting, waiting for the bell, to rush to the basement and raise all kinds of ? cane? When all of a sudden to my wondering eyes did appear, eight teachers came running to the basement to hear.

McKenney yelling them out by name. On Scanlon, on Lamson and Webster, on Hibert, on Harrington, on Henderson and Lane. Hurry to the basement to get everyone's NAME.

They opened the door and saw them all there hanging from the rafters by their hair.

While visions of vacations shined through their eyes, the teachers stood at the door yelling SURPRISE!

The students were causing such a clatter, the teachers couldn't figure what was the matter.

Then the students yelled, "Come on in! Let the PARTY begin!"

The teachers were so excited to be asked in, that they stormed in with a grin.

While everyone with their glasses and some with their butts, they started to leave with wild hic-cups.

As the final bell began to ring, the party broke up with a Christmas song. Everyone left saying HAPPY NEW YEAR and hope your Christmas is filled with a case of CHEER.
